INTRODUCING...

PURPLE
the
POTATO

MOM

SISTER

Purple, the potato has been good at math
since she was 7 years
old.

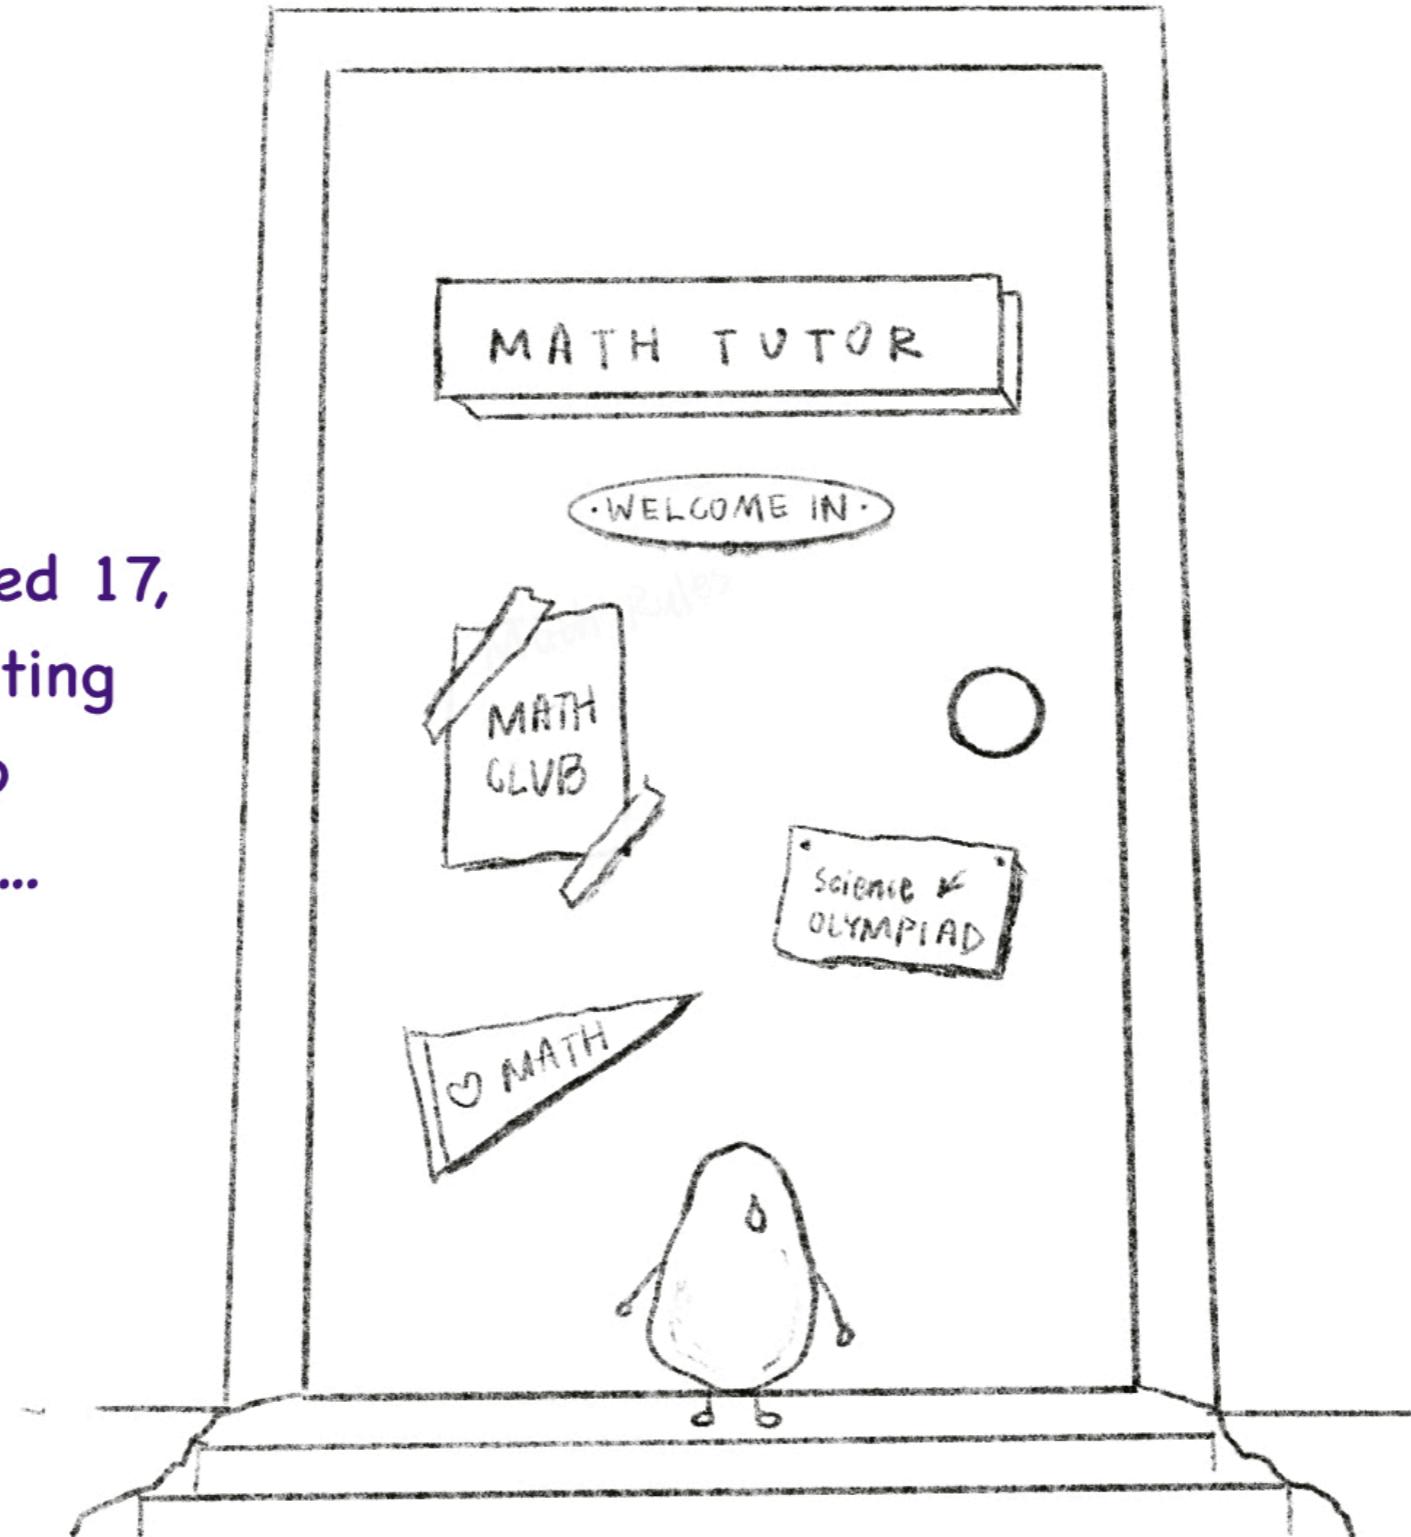

She also excels at playing the piano.

Purple's parents are extremely proud of her for accomplishing many things.

10 YEARS LATER ...

When she turned 17,
math was getting
difficult to understand...

MATH TUTOR

WELCOME IN

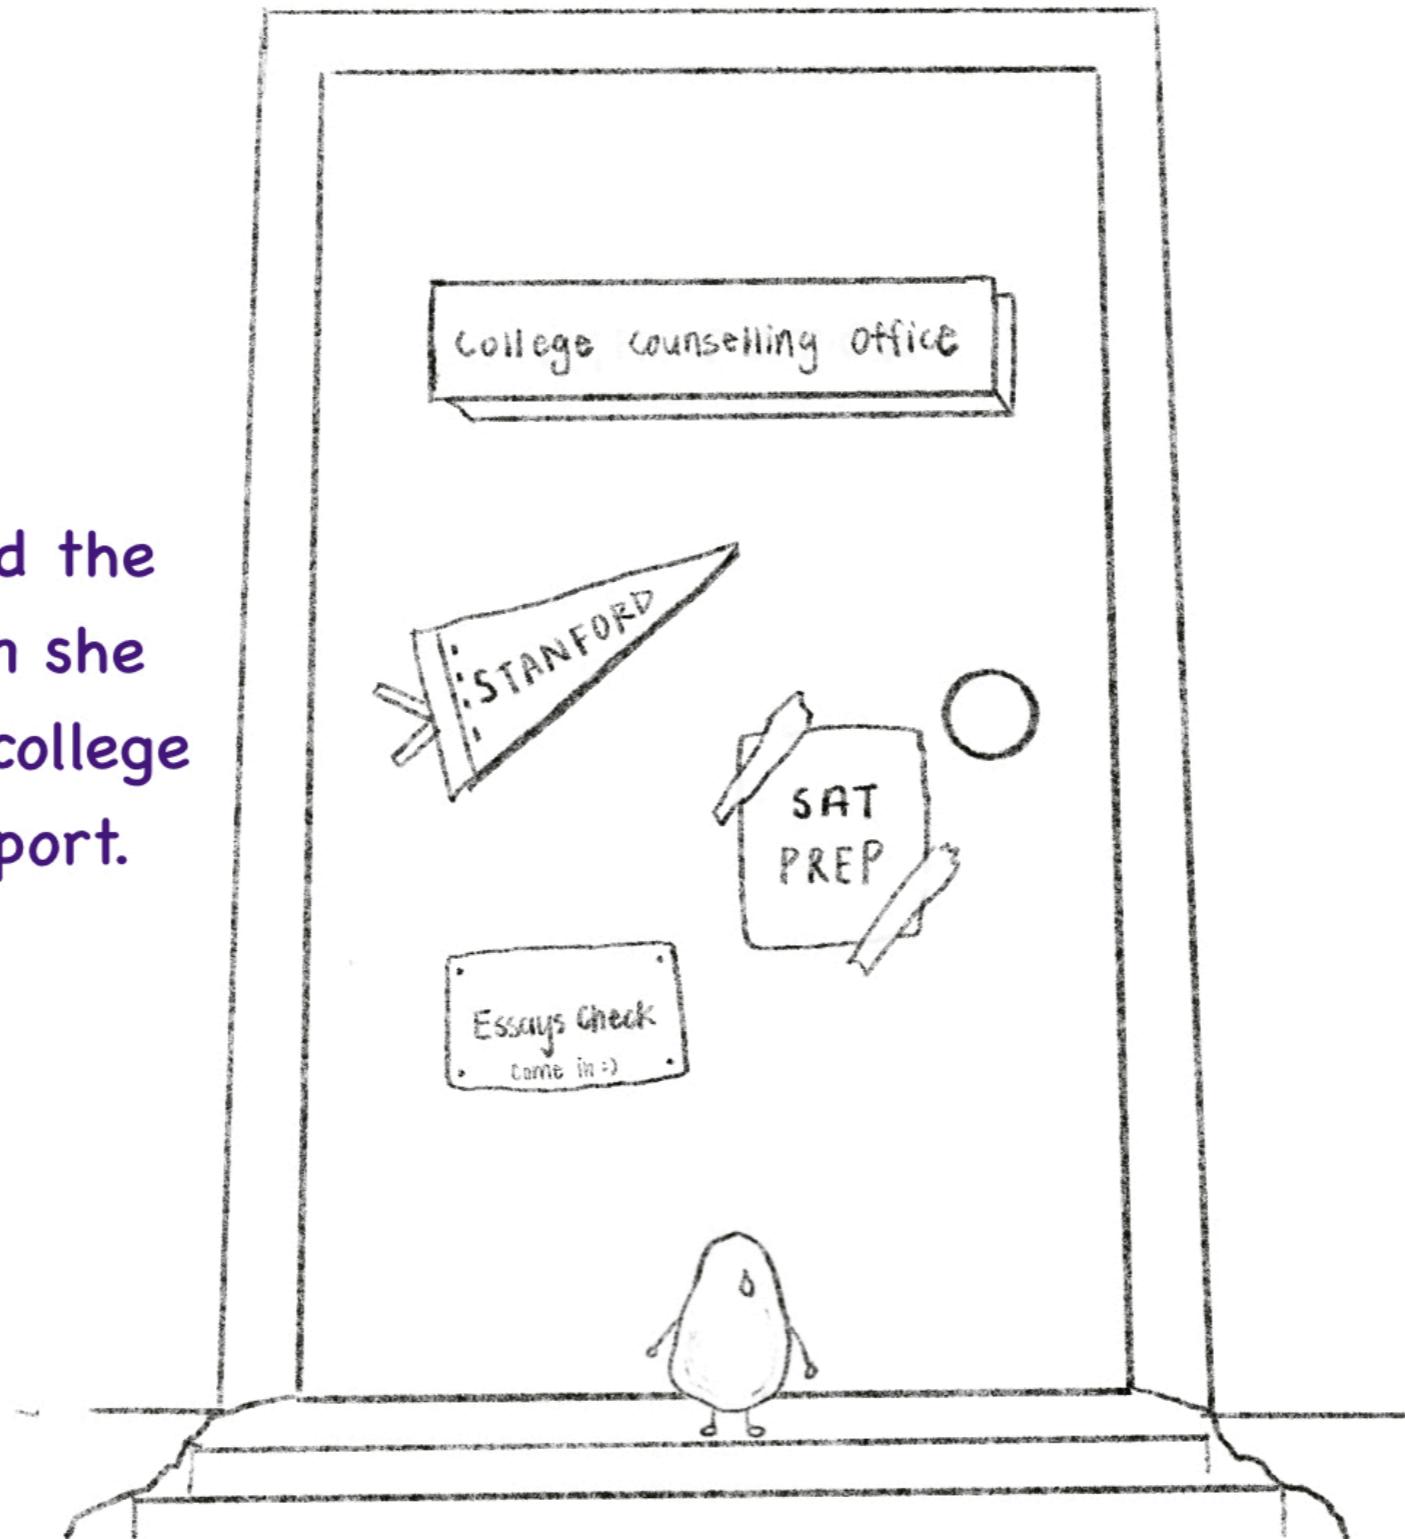

Are you the tutor?

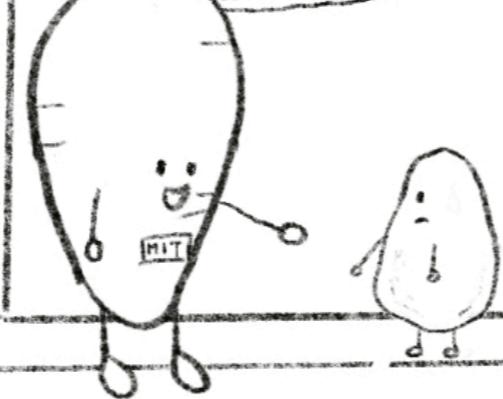

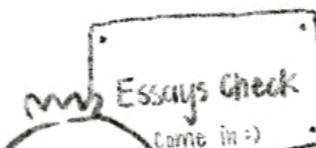

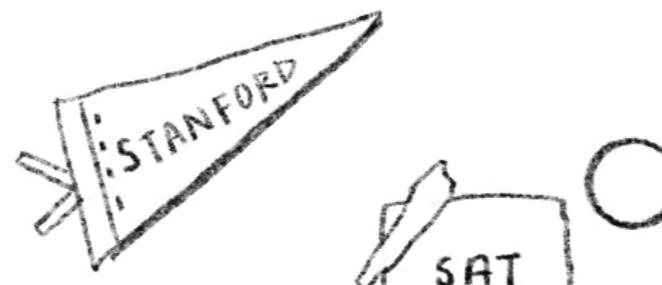

She couldn't admit
that she too, needs
math support

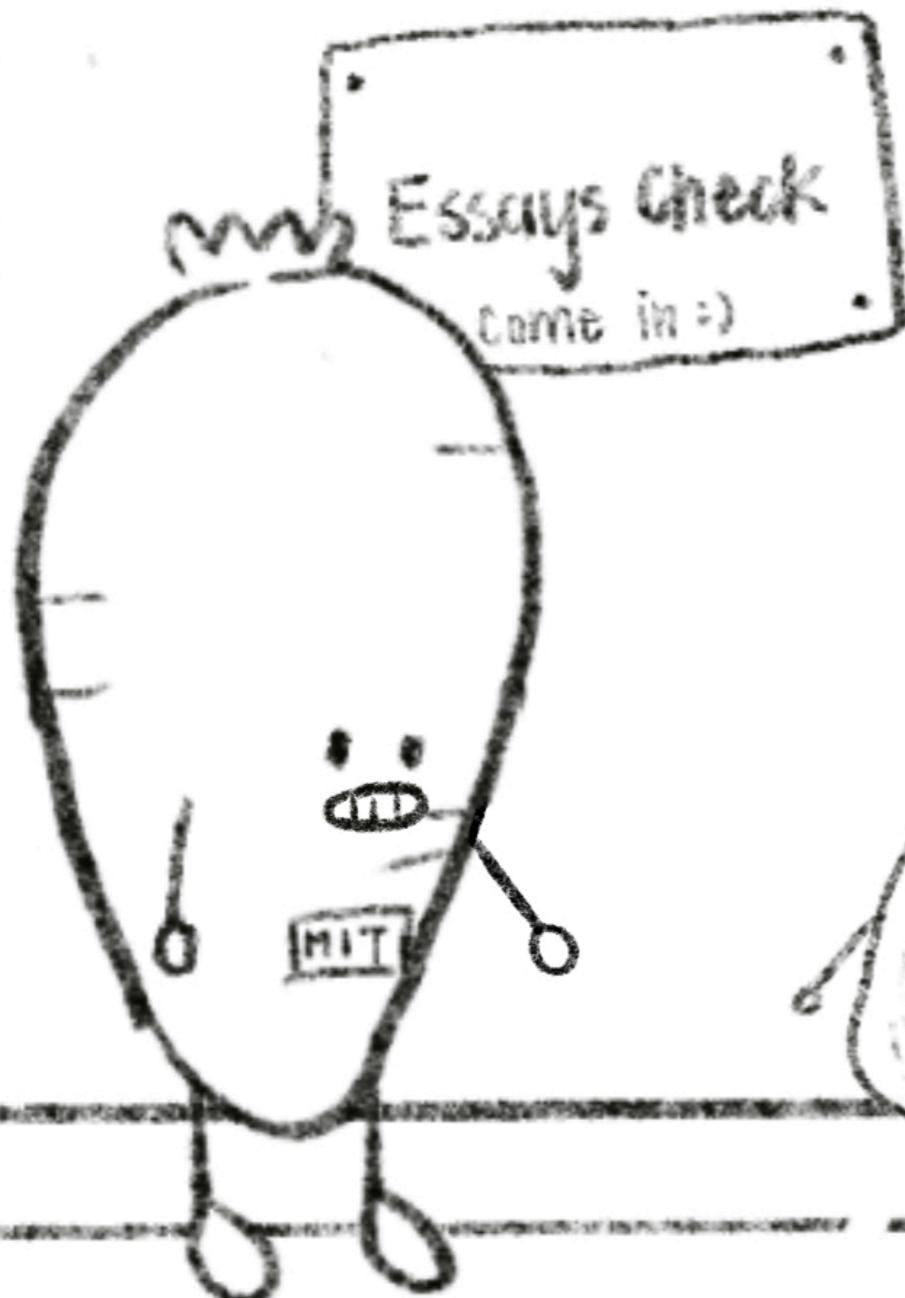

She encountered the same fear when she went to receive college application support.

Are you interested in engineering?

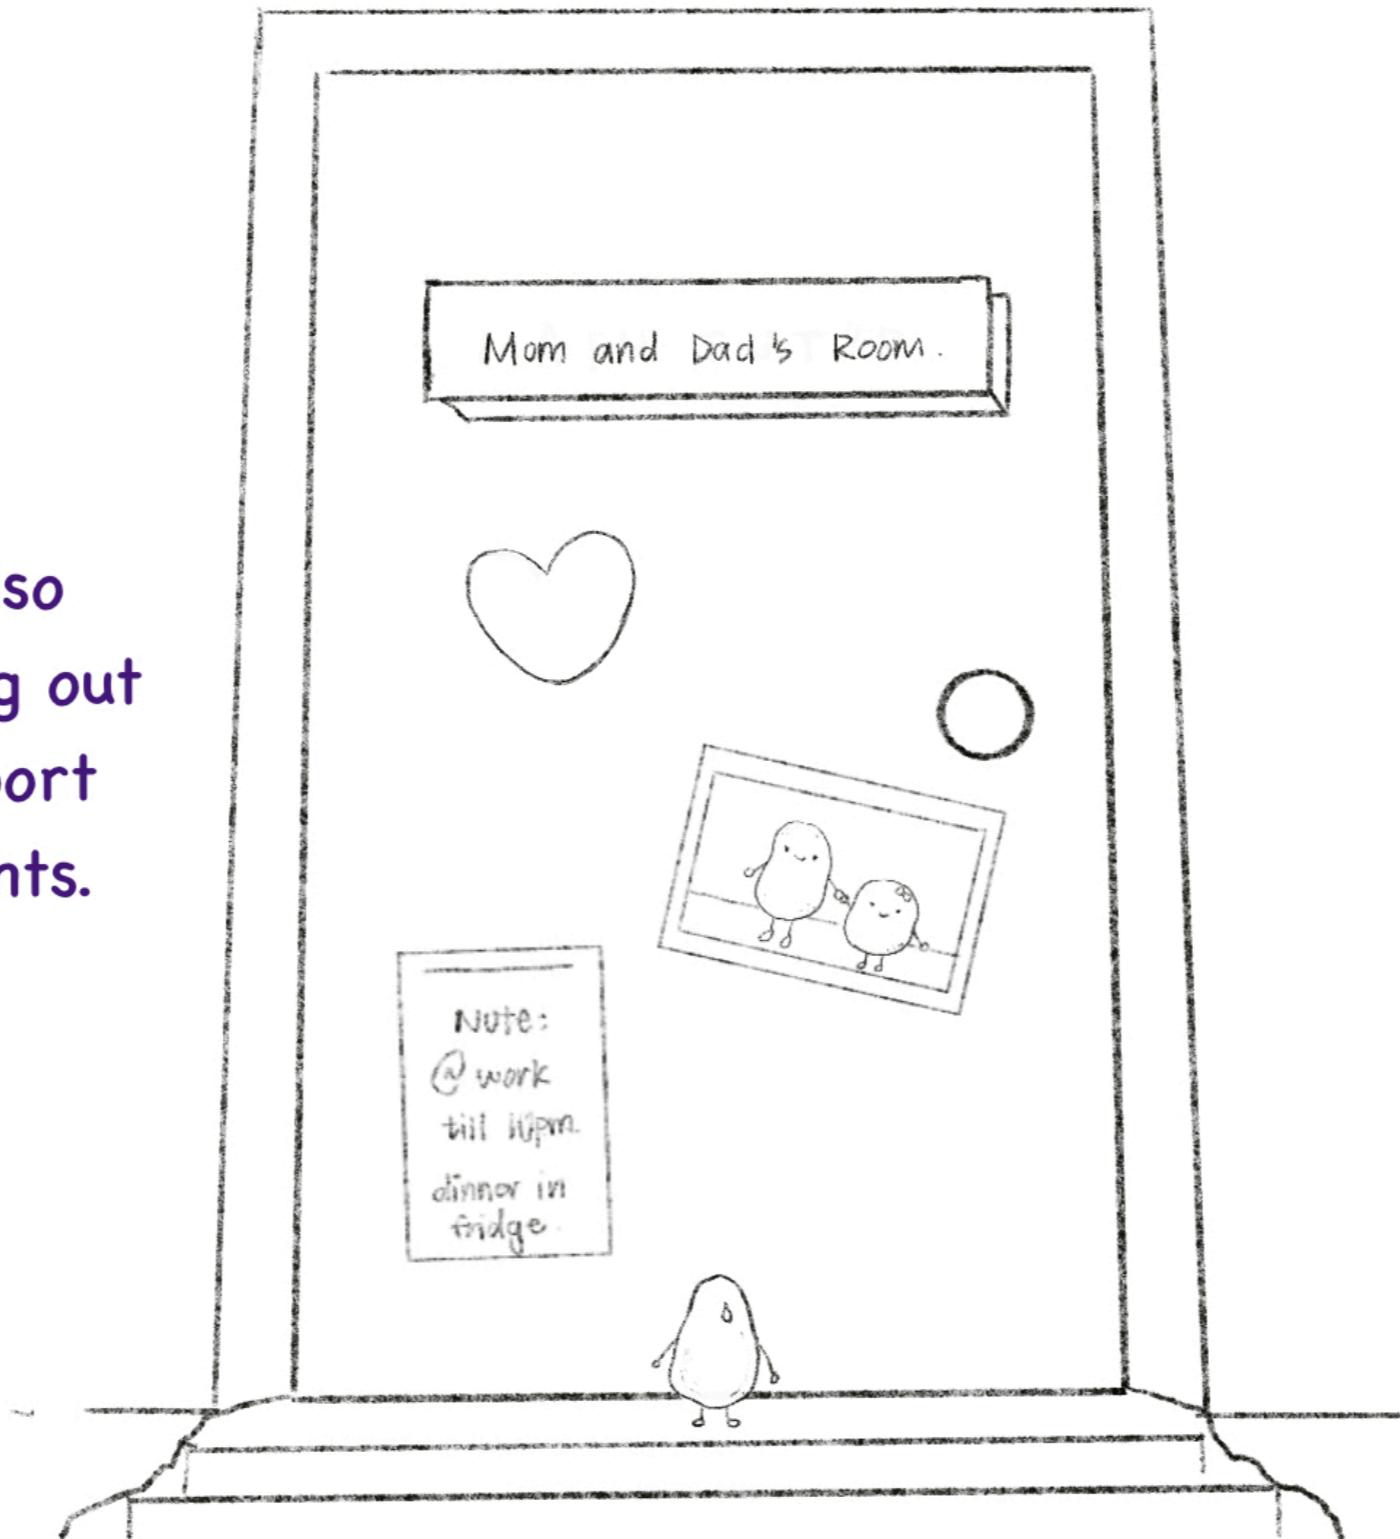

College counselling office

How can she tell him that she actually likes English
more than engineering?

Purple was also
afraid of seeking out
emotional support
from her parents.

What should I do if my friends don't want to hang out with me anymore?

Mom and Dad's Room.

How can Purple help
her sister if she herself does not have any friends?

I don't know

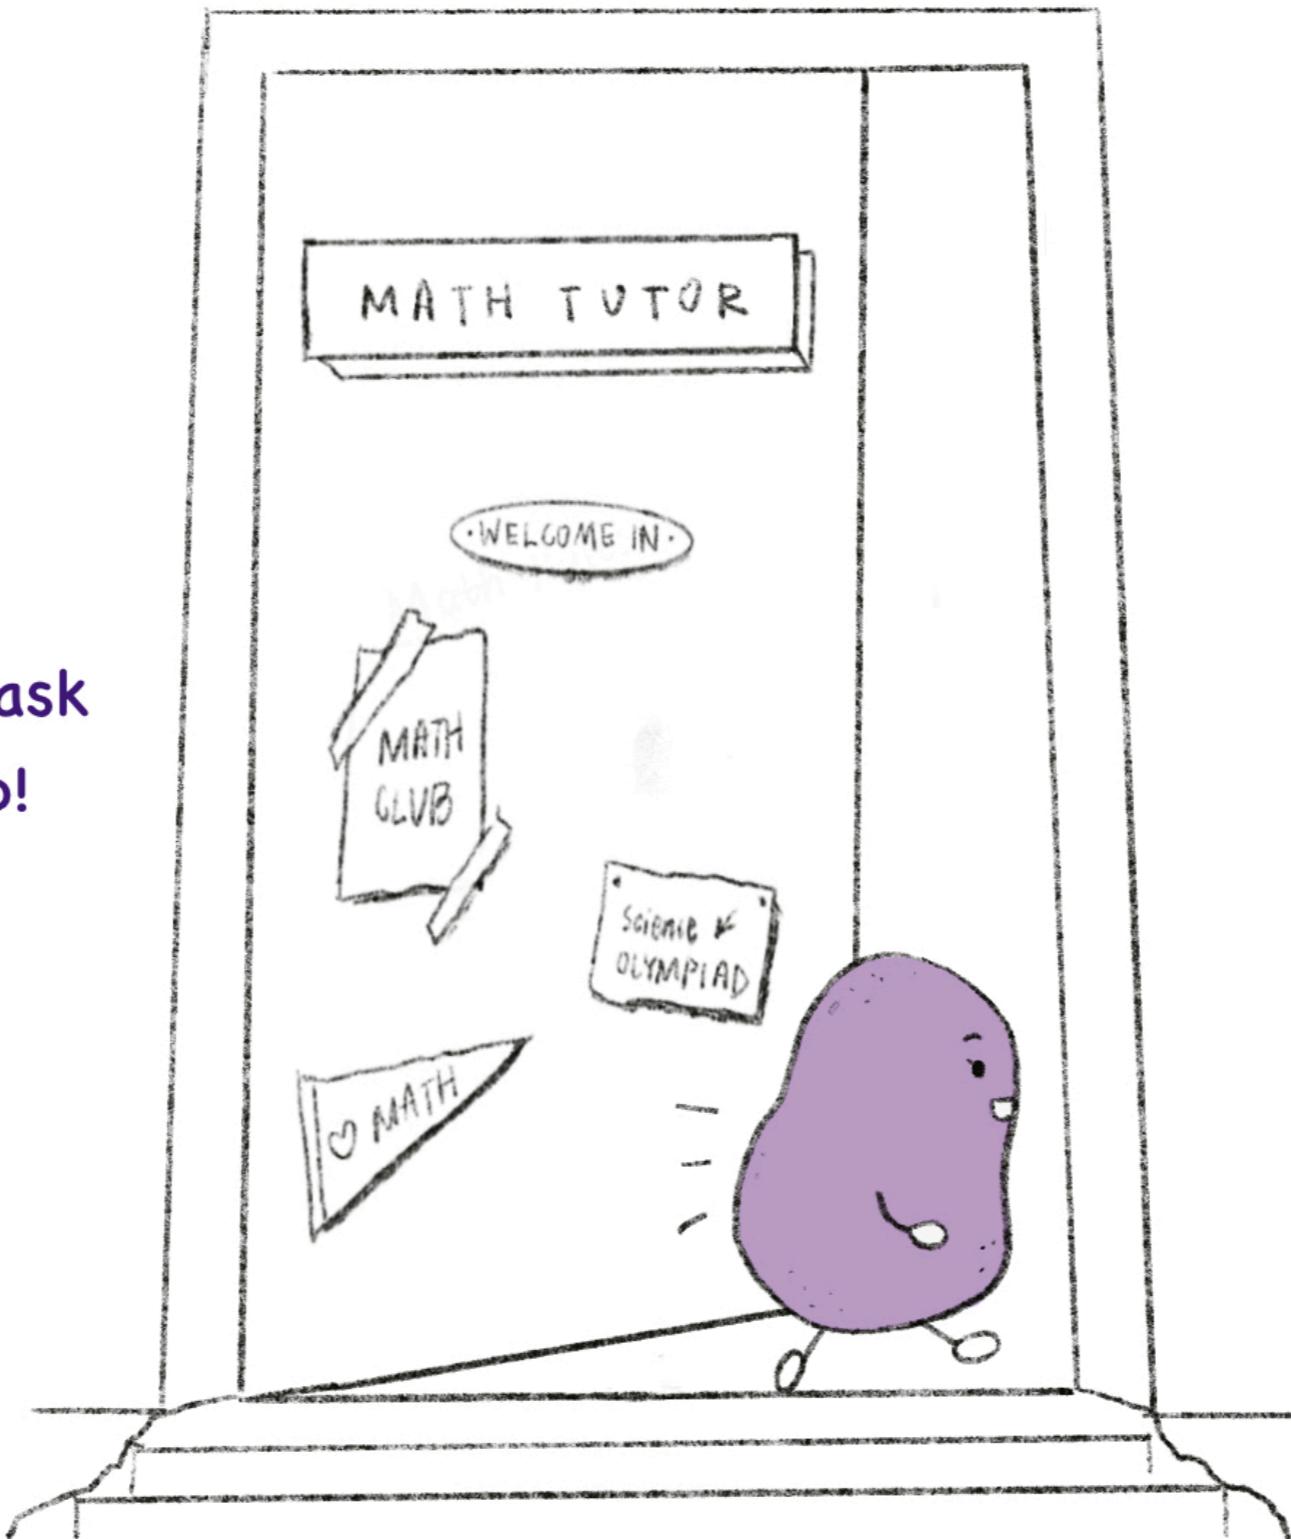

With all the pressure,
she couldn't help but to break down in tears.

After crying for awhile, she realized that it's okay to not meet the expectations society sets for being Asian American. She can choose to live life her way!

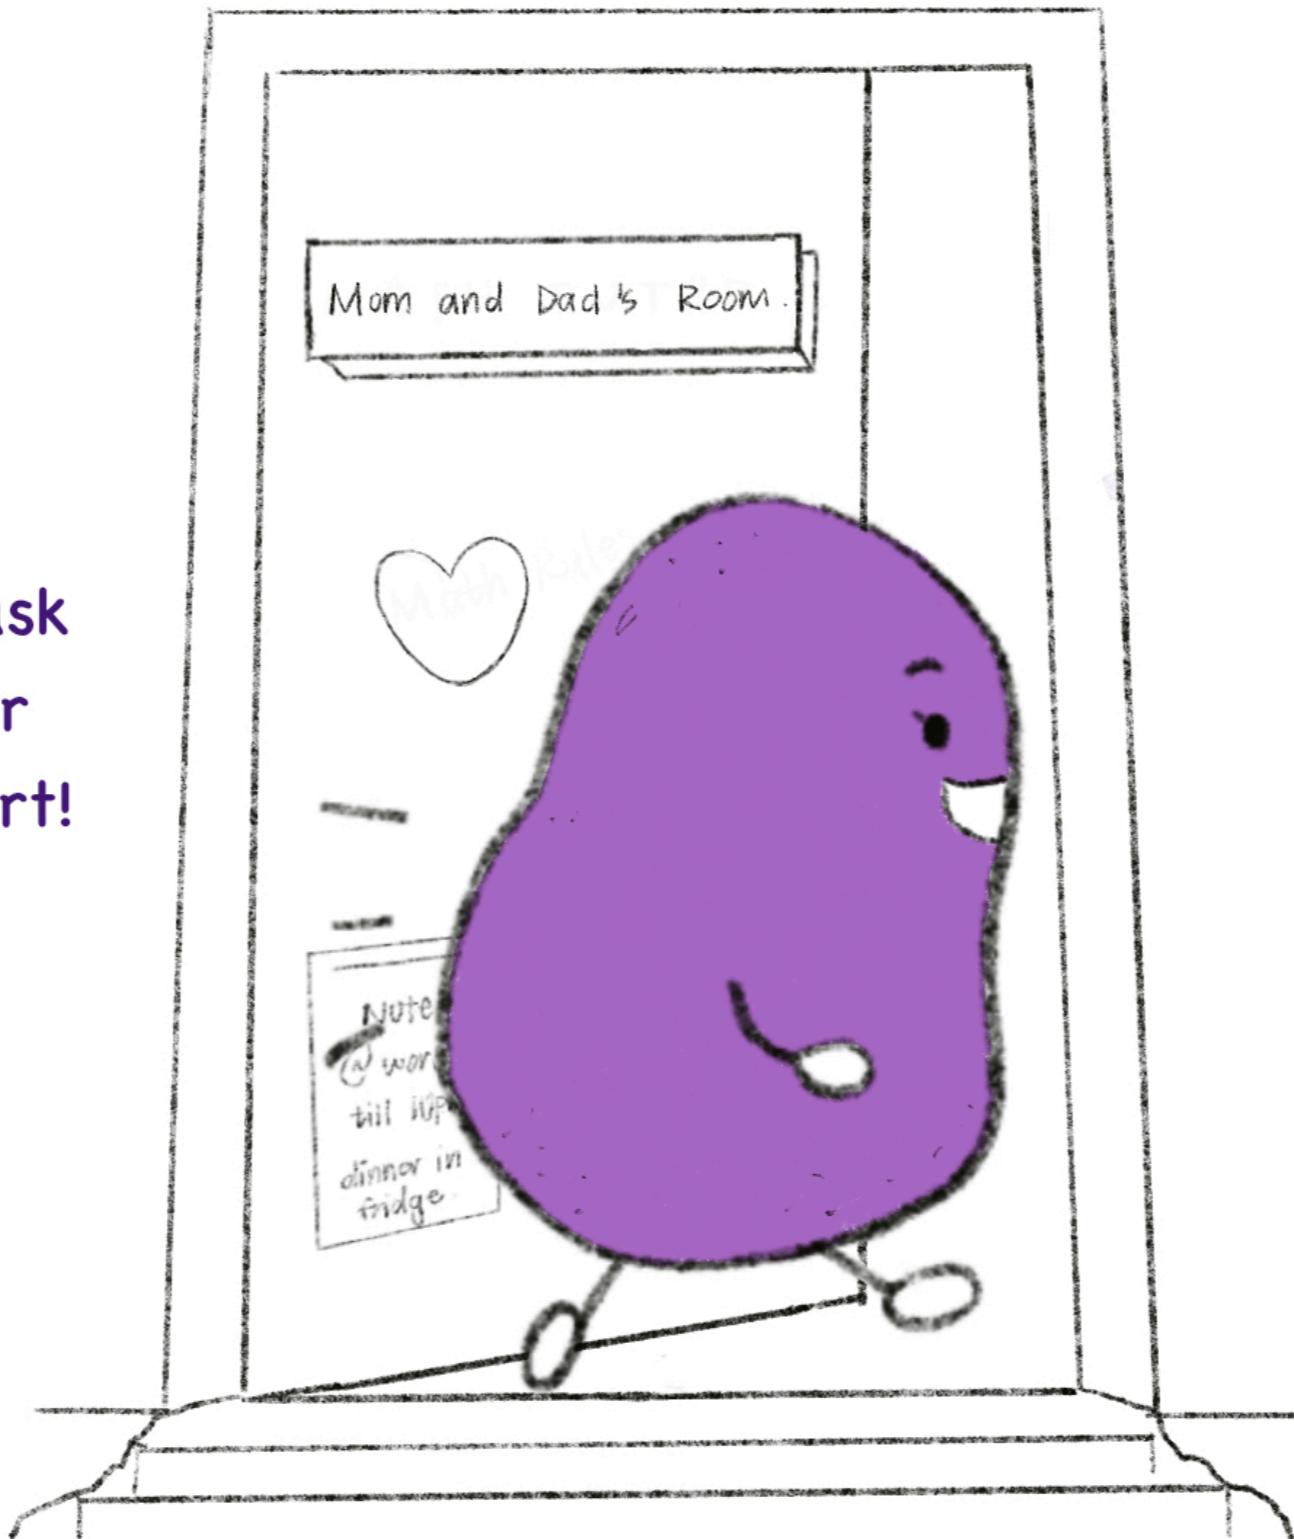

She's ready to ask
for math help!

She's ready to discuss questions and concerns with her college counselor!

She's ready to ask
her parents for
emotional support!

When Purple finally learned to accept herself, she found people who value her for who she is.
